

CAFE EVENING 2004

A Cafe Evening was not on the agenda for 2004, having several new staff in the Arts Departments and a general feeling of NCEA pressures, it was not a viable prospect. Geoff Rowe had other ideas, and the boundless enthusiasm shown by Mrs Karen Chapman, the school's new Arts Co-ordinator, made us change our minds. Geoff assured Mrs Matthews that, "the students would do everything"!!!

My initial skepticism proved to be totally misplaced, as a large and totally reliable group of seniors turned up to Tuesday meetings to begin the organization. Cafe Evening 2004 took on a theme which was Ancient Greece (Olympics and all that) and the hall was bedecked with columns, ivy, statues and other Greeky things!! It looked fantastic on the night and it was due to the huge effort by the Students' Gala Committee, the Arts staff and the amazing Mrs Chapman. Exquisite cuisine was prepared and served by the Year 12 and 13 students, under the guidance of Mr Cox, Mr Singh and the hugely energetic Mrs Matthews. (the other one!).

There were many highlights during the superb evening, including the beautiful vocal skills of Missetti Olago, Shandy Moke (watch out Norah Jones!), and the acoustic skills of Charles Wilkie. The hilarious Shakespeare performances by Tracey Kitchingman and Zoe Deverick, and the creativity of the Year 11, self-devised melodrama. There was also a feast of artwork provided by the Art students.

The evening also showcased new talents, perhaps best illustrated by the Year 10 Dance Group and the first appearance of an orchestral ensemble. The Dance students met with Ms Shepherd every Tuesday interval for over a term, to choreograph and rehearse their item. This was the first time we have had a Junior Dance Group perform and their enthusiasm and dedication were great to see. The Orchestral Group rehearsed without fail every Thursday after school, with Mr Gibbs. It's great to see new arts groups forming and I hope they continue to perform for many years to come.

It goes without saying that the continuity of the evening was greatly enhanced by the slick and professional delivery of Chris Rakete and Charlotte Poietti, who seamlessly held the evening together with poise and aplomb. Chris's toga will be a talking point for many years to come!

All the students really put on a fabulous show and it was great to see the seasoned performers help along those students who hadn't had to face a huge audience before. A huge tribute must be paid to everybody, which particularly includes those people whose incredible organizational skills behind the scenes meant that the evening was the success it was. Thanks also to Geoff Rowe for his perseverance!

The phone call she never should never have answered by Kellie Blundell

It was one of the worst days of her life. It started with the phone call she never should have answered. . . .

It was Saturday the 9th of September. She woke up feeling really excited about going to her friend's house for the day. Later her friend would be staying at her house for the night. They went to town and at 5 o'clock returned. Someone had rung her, it was a guy from school. She kind of knew him, so she rang him and left a message on his answer machine to tell him to ring her at home.

About 7 o'clock her phone rang. She spoke to him for three hours. When he asked her out, she did not hesitate, because it felt as though she had known him for a long time. He was hot and she thought nothing more of it. On Monday she saw him at lunchtime. They talked for a while and the suddenly he said that he loved her. She thought it was really weird, but let the thought pass. Once she was home he kept texting her all night, repeating the message that he loved her. Suddenly she felt scared. At school the next day she tried to avoid him, but he was everywhere she went. He brought her flowers, candy and showered her with treats. Then it happened. She confronted him. In no uncertain terms she told him he was moving too fast! They had only been going out for two days.

He did not take it very well and reacted by yelling and swearing. He stormed off. She ignored his response and got on with her day.

On her way home, he attacked her and stuffed her in a car. He screamed at her, demanding that she say she loved him. To avoid being hurt, she complied with his wishes, but then it got worse. Eventually he drove to an old delapidated house. He tied her to a bed and left her there.

After what seemed like hours, she managed to get free. The door was locked. Then it clicked - she discovered a phone and rang her friend. Suddenly the door opened - he was back! Lying on the bed again she still pretended to be tied up. Once again he demanded that she tell him she loved him.

After the arrest, he was sentenced for kidnapping and attempted rape. She was so scared. The next week she was very fragile. She did not want to talk to boys.

Two years have passed since the awful encounter. She is in a long term relationship but is very cautious about who she talks to. She will never forget the phone call she should not have made.

CAMP WAHARAU -- Year Nine

Camp Waharau provided the opportunity for our new Year Nine students to get to know one another and try a variety of activities in the beautiful Hunua Ranges. Mrs Matthews led a crack team of teachers, marshalled by her right-hand man, Mr Jardine. His iron discipline kept the pupils - and some of the staff - in order throughout the week. Those pupils who stepped out of line found themselves on an early morning run and various 'nasty' duties.

Mrs Matthews' food was truly awesome and much appreciated. It was noted that Mr Merchant had put on a few pounds by the end of the week. His jigsaws kept everyone transfixed and his ability to run the orienteering from his jigsaw was truly amazing. Mr Broun a camp veteran, expertly led the students through the Hunua Ranges, using all his experience in mapwork and navigation.

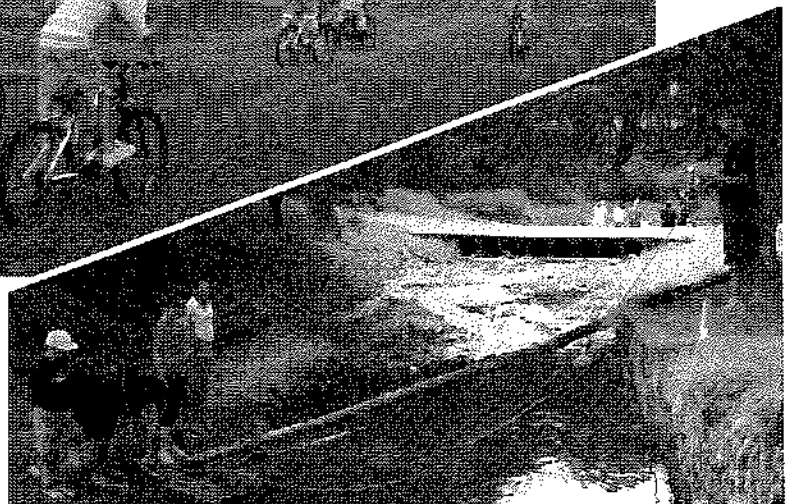

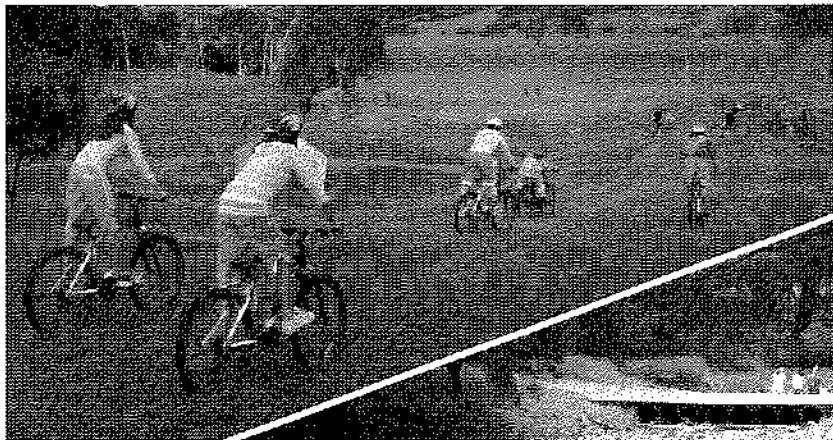

Miss Jalis, who awoke early one morning to chase some errant boys back to their bunks, proved not just a quick runner, but a dab hand at board games as well. Many of the pupils tried activities they'd never experienced before - bushcraft, for example. This involved using natural vegetation to build a shelter in the wild. Several students made excellent use of what was available and worked well as a team.

'Manhunt' was an activity that involved camouflage and stalking skills. Some students were adept at hiding in the undergrowth for long periods and then reaching their target destination unseen. Students also faced the river-crossing challenge. Working as a team, students had to build a 'bridge' to cross the river. Nearly every single team was able to get their whole team across without getting wet.

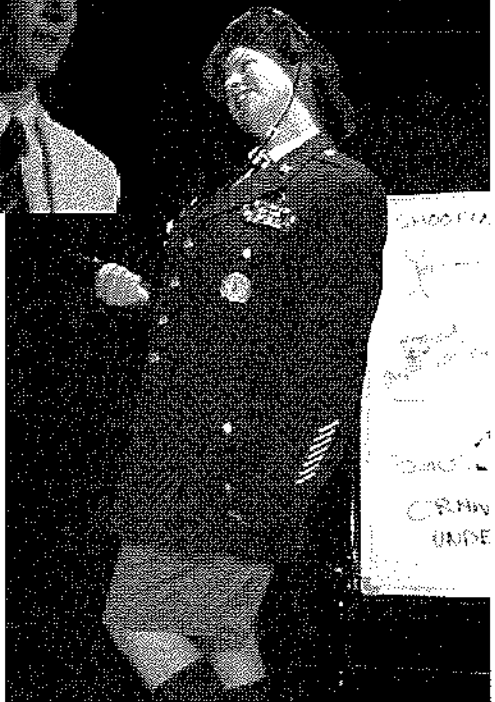

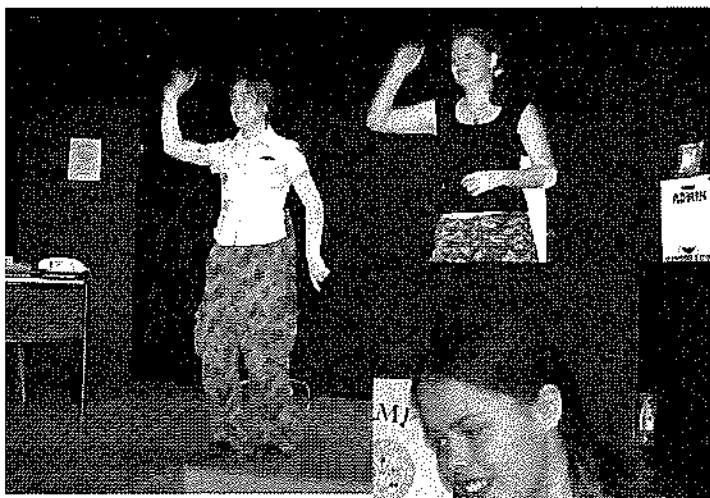

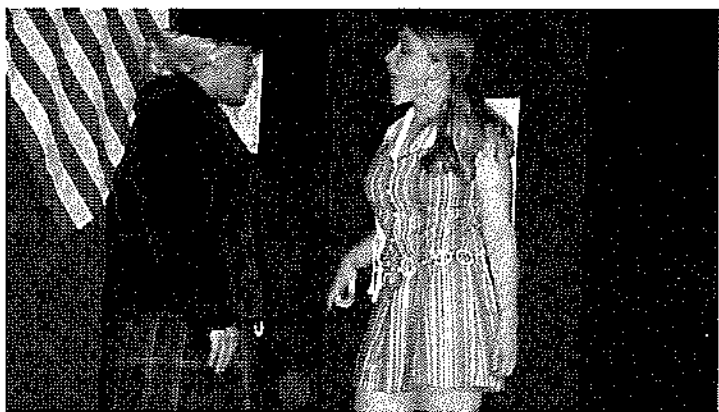

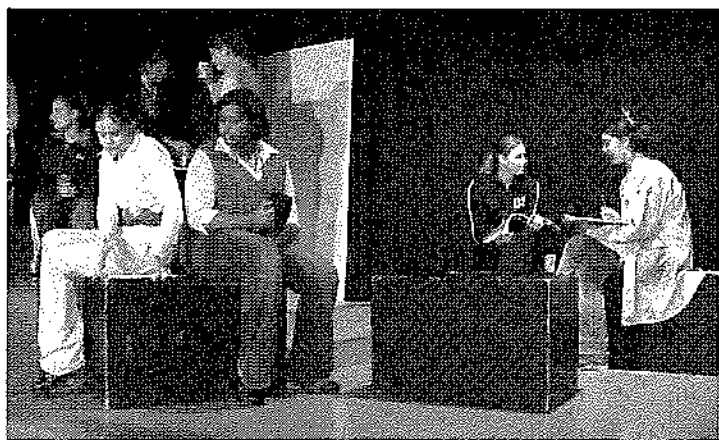

Other activities included mountain biking and high ropes. The senior students did a terrific job throughout the week, accompanying the Year Nines on their activities and "patrolling" the camp well into the early hours of the morning. The fearsome Burma Trail, set by the seniors, proved an awesome experience and one that no Year Nine will ever forget.

On the final evening, Mr Merchant compered a talent show. There were several amazing acts, including Lindon's break-dancing skills and a breath-taking all-girls dance routine. Once over, the hall became a disco for the evening. Mr Braunton's 'slug' dance raised a few eyebrows, matched only by Mr Jardine's Irish Jig dancing.

The students returned to school wet, tired, relieved and just happy to enjoy life's simple pleasures once again - like visiting a shop for example. Well done, campers!

Drama

DRAMA DEPARTMENT

Two new teachers joined the Drama Department for 2004. Ms Shepherd, a recent graduate teacher from Dunedin. (previously from sunny Queensland) and Ms Diepraam, another new graduate from Auckland. Both teachers have brought invaluable skills to a growing department.

Ms Shepherd has been busy building up the Dance area, but she has also taught Year 10 and Year 11 Drama classes. The start of Term 4 will see her Year 11 class perform the play, "One Size Fits All", penned by our ex-resident playwright, Steve Saville.

Ms Diepraam has been kept busy teaching Year 10 and Year 12 Drama. Her Year 12 class has provided two real highlights this year. The first was a highly entertaining Shakespeare Festival, during which her class presented the life and times of Shakespeare and Shakespearean Theatre, over two nights. The research and skills shown by the class were very impressive.

At the end of Term Two, the same class presented their production called, "Jigsaw" by Auckland playwright, Susan Batty. A challenging play, the students put on a thoroughly professional performance and kept a packed audience spellbound. Particular mention needs to be made of Tania Manuel, who gave her all to a very demanding role.

The Year 13 students have as usual, managed to give their teacher, Ms Matthews, many moments where a straitjacket seemed like a good option (for the teacher that is), but they also surpassed themselves in a truly memorable production of, the play, "Killed - July 17". Based on World War I, the play is highly emotive and makes huge demands on the actors to sustain a somber mood. All ten students gave superb performances and treated audiences to performances of a very high standard. Term 4 will be hectic, with both Year 11 classes and three Year 10 classes performing class productions... another busy year for Papakura High's Drama Department.

ART: Learning Area Report

The Art Department has again seen a range of changes this year in terms of staffing and room changes. As class sizes for 2004 have grown, there was a need to employ Kate Lobb to cover extra classes, as well as those previously taught in other areas such as the home-room classes and Learning Support. In order to accommodate these extra classes, the Art Department has acquired T1, which was previously the Year 13 Common Room as another teaching class.

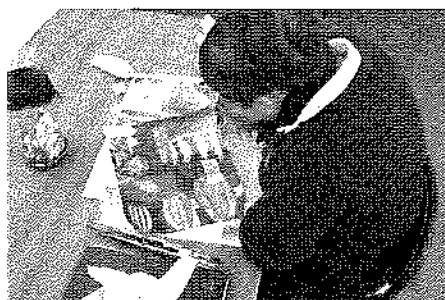

A Year 9 Art Technology Stream has been created, which has been available to all Year 9 students for a term. This was designed and implemented by Mr Bennett, Miss Botes and Miss Lobb.

The aim for next year is that this will lead to a Year 10 Sculpture class, run by Miss Lobb.

The Year 10 Art option was so popular, that another class was created and our senior classes have been working studiously on completing excellent art work for their NCEA in areas.

The Art Department was this year able to begin beautifying the school with small murals for the outside of Drama, W-Wing and the Hall. Other areas such as H -Block and C-Wing have also benefitted from some wonderful artworks.

MATHS RULES!!! Summing up the Maths Department 2004

Maths Week: Once again New Zealand National Maths Week was held in Week 4, in Term 3. Lunchtime competitions such as darts, dimensions and juggling continue to be popular among students. The 'Problem of the Day' questions for Juniors, seniors and staff, also proved a challenge for most. Well done to all those who took part.

Mathex Competitions: 9 SA took out the Year 9 School Competition, with 9TX coming a close second. 10 TX narrowly beat 10 TZ in a tie-break question, to take out the Year 10 Competition. All four teams went on to represent Papakura High School at both the Counties-Manukau Competition held at Waiuku College, and the Auckland Mathex Competition, held at ASB Stadium, Kohimarama. Although not placing, all the teams gained very respectable scores and had a lot of fun.

The National Bank Mathematics Competition: Over 130 students from Papakura High School, Year 9 and Year 10 competed in the National Bank Mathematics Competition. A special congratulation goes to the following students in 10 TX who received awards: Matthew Freeman and Nicholas Van Der Voorn, both placed in the top 100 students in Year 10, whilst J Rebecca Cummings, Leon Deverick and Alison White all received Merit Awards. Well done to everyone who sat the competition.

We eagerly await the results for the Australian Maths Competition later this year.

The Academic Institute

Lance King has continued to run the School Success Course early in Term One for the Year 9's and their parents. This meant that students were able to identify their own personal learning style and received an excellent introduction on how to handle issues such as time management and revision. All students in the programme sat Australian Maths, Science and English exams and there were some excellent results this year.

Forty-six Year 10 Academic students studied for and sat NCEA Level 11 Geography. Forty-two students obtained at least 12 or more credits out of a possible 24 credits. Thirty three pupils gained 15 credits. Overall a credible 91% success rate. Congratulations to all those students who attempted the course one year earlier than usual. This year the programme was extended to Year 11. This meant each Year 10 class in the programme will stay together as a tutor group and receive instruction in English, Maths and Science within the same class grouping. Thank you all those parents and care-givers who continue to support this most successful programme.

Music Department

It was quite a challenge to be back at school after having spent 2003 being away and studying (thank you Royal Society of NZ but after Term 1 had been under way for a few weeks we were all in the swing of things, I realised that in the Music Department I was working with a great bunch of students and the 2 fabulous new teachers of Mr Gibbs and Mrs Mackay, who had joined the team.

It has been an interesting year of hard work, but a lot of fun and pleasure seeing you guys achieve amazing things. It's always exciting watching bands enter Rockquest - well done Black Obsidia - and great to have a band enter the Pacifica Beats; know that you did us proud and certainly gave Mr Gibbs a rockin' first hand Polynesian Styles experience! In addition we have enjoyed listening to you all practise during lunchtimes and after school and positive to see new people become 'regulars' and a real part of the Department. Watch out seniors - there are some amazing talent in the junior school coming through!

Mrs Mackay has got all the guitarists working harder than I've ever seen before and it's been great to see you all rise to the challenge. Also the recent senior performances have shown the hard work and commitment of Lisa Lorrelle and Phil Cook (vocal and drum tutors) and some of you have responded with stunning performances to be very proud of. Remember - THIS is what it is all about!

So yes, the Music Department brought over yet another English person - however, he is from Nottingham and doesn't sound quite as cultured as the London-born and bred HOD... He has been a real treasure and I know that I have, along with the seniors, enjoyed his wit, jokes and stories (he knows the most trivial things!!).

I would just like to give big congrats to the musical talent of Mr Charles Wilkie. He entered the inaugural National Secondary Schools Competition "Play It Strange" run by Mike Chunn of APRA, and his song came 14th out of 271 entries nation-wide. The song will be released along with the other top 20 placings on a cd in 2005. I'm sure this is the start of his career - watch out for him!

So as this goes to press, the Juniors will be treated to the touring opera company, Class Act Opera (sorry Geoff Rowe, no dancing on stage for you this year...) and it just leaves me to say a big thanks to all the itinerant tutors for their hard work, Mr Gibbs and Mrs Mackay for keeping me sane (and only letting me get 2 more grey hairs this year) and a final "keep it up" to all students coming back for 2005. I am looking forward to watching you grow and develop further.

PASEFIKA POLANIZE - Pacifica beats

Our Band POLANIZE began right here in Papakura High with Leti and Sarah Olago (vocals), Cameron Burton (bass), Charles Wilkie (drums), Yvonne Tamall'i (guitar) and Angel Timall-Siau (piano). We had a BLAST at our first performance and first entry in the PACIFICA ROCKQUEST this year. Our band all got together one day and practised for only 3-4 hours. We were really surprised to find how much work we could get done. The Pacifica Beats were held at Auckland Girls Grammar on a Friday. We met up with different schools in Auckland, including the special guests, Adeaze who were the winners of the Pacifica Beats two years ago.

The night was fun and everybody's performance was awesome. Performing on stage didn't feel too bad. We were just all enjoying ourselves, keeping up the smiles and trying to show the audience what Papakura has to show. The dancing and singing from all the schools were really good and it really didn't feel like we were in a competition.

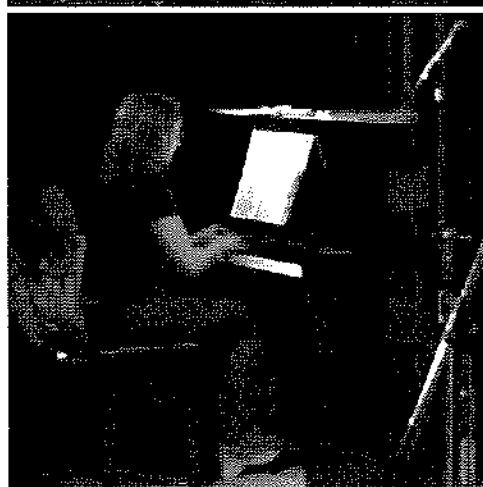

At the end of the night the judges were to announce the winners.

They called up one member of the group to represent each band. I did not want to go up, but what can

I say, I had no other option as the Band forced me to go up, which I did eventually. Standing there by myself I thought that I'd probably come off stage with nothing and it felt hard to stand there. During the night they picked a winning band who were from Papatoetoe. Even though it wasn't us, we weren't angry. We just took it all in and accepted the fact that we just didn't come first as the winning band had performed amazingly.

The judges then called out the best female vocalists and best musicianship. I can't really say as it was a bit of a blur, all I can remember is that our group got called out twice. We were the only group that got called up for both of the awards for best female vocalists and best musicianship. Receiving the awards was really amazing for us and I was glad that we came back to school with something to share.

So advice for the new comers. Be prepared for anything that comes your way, because you never know what you can get out of it!!!!!! ~ ALSO LIVE, LOVE AND LAUGH!!!

Creative Writing

Relationship Woes (song lyrics) Jenna Campbell

When we were together everything was great.
You never used to be a fool, but now you're just a fake.
You walk around like 'you're the man!', but you're not!
Even though I said so, - you're really not that hot.
And your new friends are just as bad!

Winter

Corey Martel

Winter means cold,
With darkness sown in.
The ice and the snow,
leave no reason to smile,
So we will wait for the summer
And its warmth and happiness within.

Winter means cold,
But you may find

The secret to joy
Tends to hide
Where is it?
It is hidden inside.

Winter means cold
But as you can see,
it's not as bad
As it's cracked up to be
So you can survive winter
And come out happy!

Black Obsidia - Rockquest 2004

Now if you're looking for a funky, rock, grunge band then this band is what you're looking for - a nice blend of solid drumming, funky bass lines, grunge gat and wicked guitar solos, Black Obsidia made their way into the world through the smoke-free Rockquest.

Black Obsidia was formed a couple of months before the heats. Practise was hard as the boys were usually distracted by jamming, which usually involved Patrick, the lead vocal and lead guitarist, playing a catchy riff. The bassist, Cameron Burton and rhythm guitarist Jesse Wagner, looking at each other, shrugging and starting to jam, and finally the well-controlled and sustained drummer Charles Wilkie, eventually breaking out with a Phat beat to complete the work of art. And, my friends the band came up with their first song 'Funk this'.

When 'Funk this' was performed at the Rockquest, it immediately gained interest among the crowd, as it was a style quite different to the rest of the night with its catchy hook of a pop song and groovy, funk Red Hot Chili Pepper feel.

Despite a few technical difficulties, the band were very pleased to have made it into the Top 12, which meant the band was eligible to compete in the regional finals.

The band was a great mix of guys, a couple of veterans who'd done the deal before, and also a couple of rookies, which was a wicked experience for both parties. In fact I believe the drummer and bassist said something along the lines of, this was one of the more fun and laid-back Rockquests they'd been involved in.

So if you ever feel you're looking for that little hard-rock, funk to wake you up in the morning, ring Patty up and he'll organize a personal intimate gig, or if you think you've got what it takes, or you're just out to have some fun with some of your songs, then give the Rockquest a shot. It was a very wicked experience.

Saxcess Concert

To learn the history of the saxophone and have a few laughs, we were treated to Saxcess.

As the name suggests, it was a group of highly talented and humorous saxophonists. They played four different types of saxophone; the soprano (very high), the alto (the one you normally see), the tenor (getting lower), and the baritone (the lowest at the concert).

They roped teachers from attending schools in to join them in a march, with teachers taking on roles such as playing castanets, and just generally making fools of themselves. It appears that many teachers do not know their left from their right, especially when turning from one direction to the other (worrying!), and some can't keep a beat (but not our music department, thank goodness!).

We were taught things like the history of the saxophone and how it evolved from other instruments like the clarinet, all the while being shown examples of how this came about (Claro-phones are a very interesting sight!)

The idea of the concert was to make music fun and get us to take an interest in the history of both music and the saxophone. We were played the theme from the Simpson's, and when the teachers were summoned, the Darth Vader theme was in order! (It wasn't me!)

It was a very humorous concert, at times at great expense to our teachers, yes, but funny all the same. It really opened our eyes to the ingenuity of some people and the lack of navigational skills of others! It created new respect in us of the saxophone and the people who play them in a humorous way, and captivated our attention and minds.

School ensemble beginning to take off

For the first time in a few years, Papakura High School finds itself with a group of musical students who are forming the basis of a new school ensemble.

Laura Poletti (clarinet), Adam Samu (saxophone), Amy Gray, Sabrina Lee and Sophia Yang (flutes), Alicia Woo (violin), Ben Laughton and Brian Armstrong (recorders) are in Years 9 and 10. They spent much of Term 3 and 4 rehearsing with Mr Gibbs and Mrs Mackay after school, as well as making their debut performance in the Arts Café Evening in August.

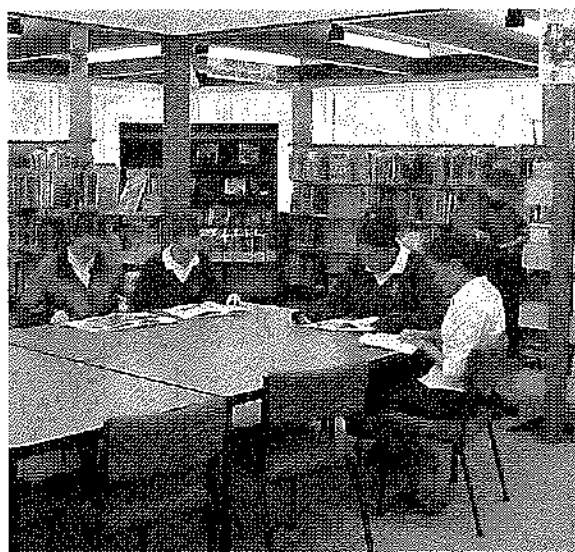

The repertoire has been a mixture of light classical and traditional tunes and it is hoped that more students will be joining in the future!!!

Charles Wilkie (drums) and Cameron Burton (bass), who were amongst the music students playing in the Year 13 concert on Thursday. Both also played in the Auckland heat of Pacifica Fest, representing the school. The band picture includes (from left to right): Stuart Gibbs (that's me! - teacher), Sophia Yang (flute), Laura Poletti (clarinet), Adam Samu (saxophone), Sabrina Lee (flute), Alicia Woo (violin), Chrissy Mackay (teacher); front row: Brian Armstrong (recorder) and Ben Laughton (recorder).

2004 LIBRARY REPORT

2004 has been a stimulating year. Term 1 ran smoothly without any computer glitches, so classes commenced in the library straight away. At the beginning of Term 2 we said farewell to Ms Soanes, after 16 months of service at Papakura High School. She has moved from the area to windy Wellington to extend her entrepreneurial skills. Her bubbly, friendly manner was sadly missed. We were short-staffed for the remainder of Term 2 and more than welcomed Mrs Porter's arrival for Term 3. Mrs Porter has come from Bookinopolis in Pukekohe and has fitted in very well with the routine of a secondary school library. However, Mrs Twyford was on leave Term 3 to undertake an industry exchange where she worked on an e-learning project. Thankfully, we began Term 4 with full staff, ready to tackle the back-log of administration and to enjoy our new library team.

This year we purchased and processed onto the shelves over 800 books. We purchased a laminator, shredder and guillotine for the library office and next year we will operate a laminating and trimming service for students at so small cost.

The library environment has been jazzed up this year with our carpets cleaned, 52 new chairs and the hanging of privacy curtains at the computer tables, all colour coordinated. We have hung some beautiful tapa art work from our Year 9 students. We were donated a large fine weave mat (Toga) from Arran and Grace Steman, which has been hung in the senior art library upstairs. It is a beautiful piece of work and highly valued in the Samoan community. It is a privilege to have such a precious item in our library.

We have enjoyed much support from a small group of dedicated Student Librarians. They have coped well with new duties and the maintenance of the usual library tasks. Their assistance was very much appreciated during our short staffing times. Many thanks to Maria Soluota-George, Samantha Fuapau, Kayla Mata, Naomi Davies, Ashaan Connor and Rahiri George. They all proved to be very reliable throughout the year, in spite of their other obligations within the school. Also thanks to Jennifer, Syphia, Amber, Jacinta and Nicole who assisted when they could.

We wish everyone a safe and happy holiday and for those leaving our school, much success for your future. We look forward to seeing those who return in 2005.

Yours in education *Kaye Twyford,
Marina Hapeta and Waveney
Porter*

Dance

The Dance Department has a home, a fantastic new studio, finished in Term 2. The old Fitness Centre (next to the gym), was converted into a fabulous teaching space. The studio is complete with shiny polished floors and a wall of mirrors. The students have adapted well to their new classroom and enjoyed beautifying it with examples of their learning! They respect their learning space and treat it accordingly. There are plans to extend a deck on the front, and build an adjoining dressing room. Look forward to these developments.

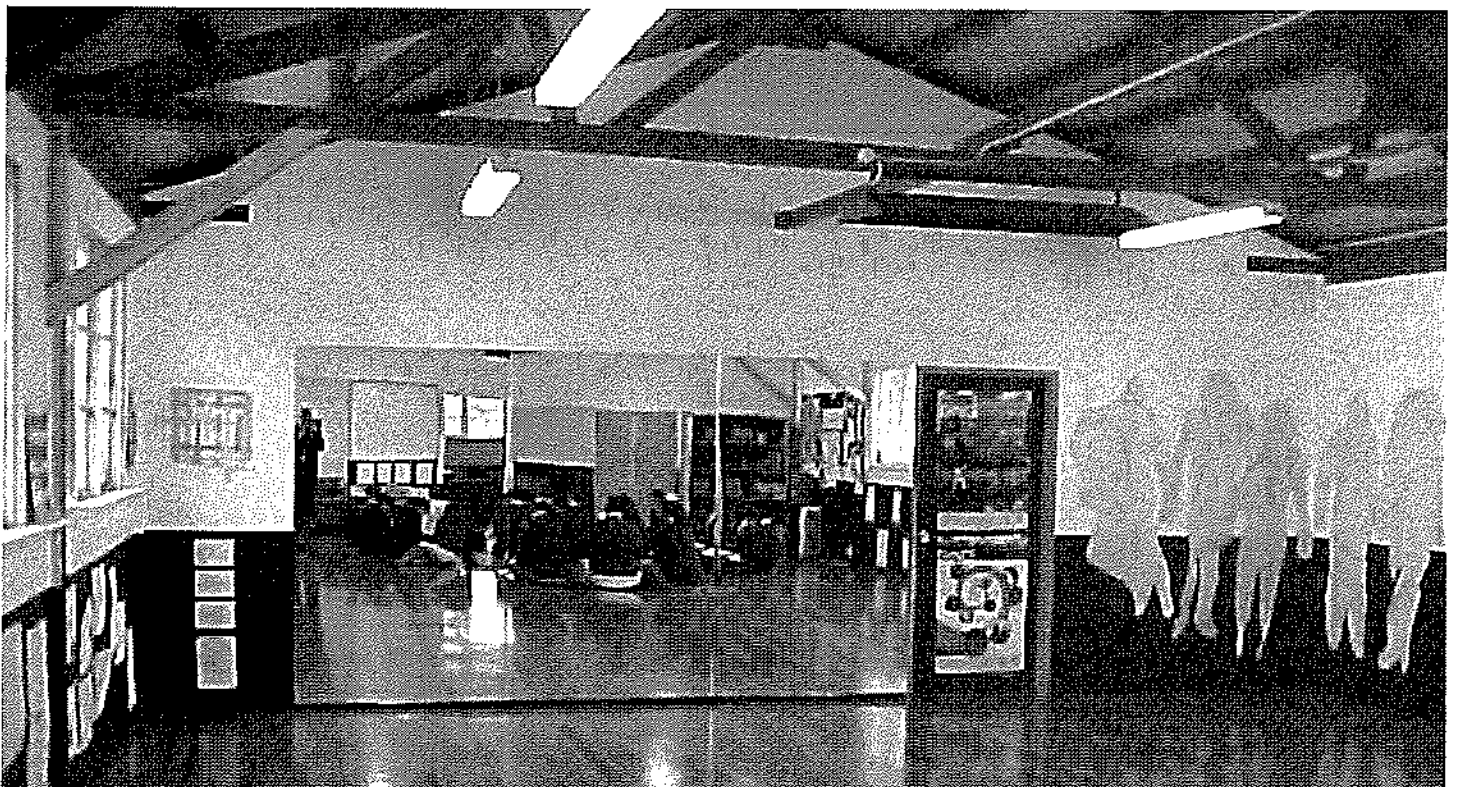

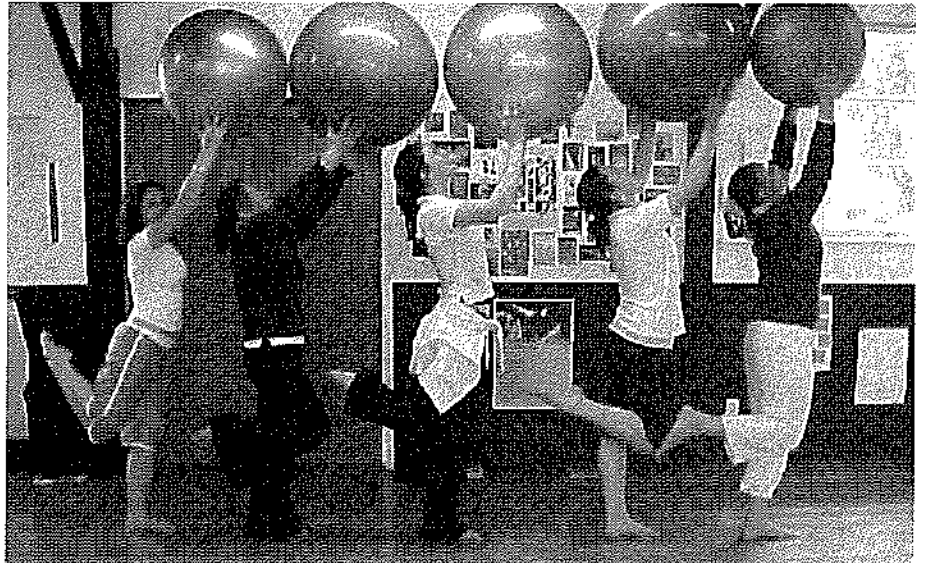

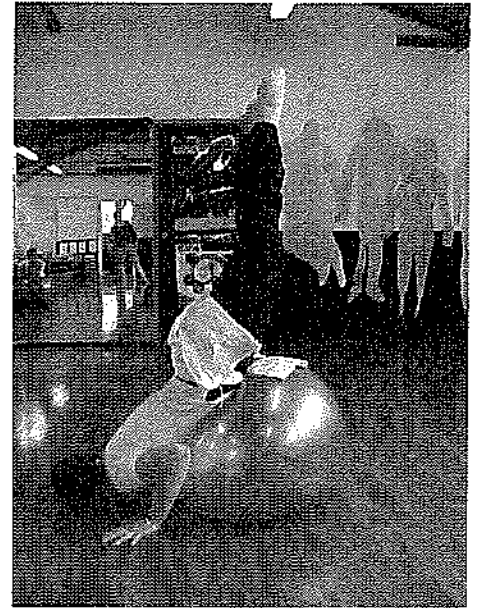

The Dance Department has been moving and grooving along. Year 11 Dance have been improving steadily. They performed a twist on the Café Evening with a "Night at the Café".

Year 12 Dance starred at the Jubilee with "Dance Crazes" - a look at dance in the past 50 years and performed a capoeira choreography at the Café Evening.

The culmination of the Dance students' efforts was witnessed at "Momentum", the Dance Department's evening in Term 4. Congratulations Dance students. You are looking great, technique has improved and choreographies are developing strength. I have really enjoyed teaching and dancing with you this year!

2005 offers a Year 10 Dance elective and Year 13 Dance (numbers are required for courses to commence) as well as Dance at Levels 1 and 2 (NCEA).

This is extremely exciting, a great opportunity for juniors to get a taste of the subject, prior to committing to NCEA Level 1 studies. The Year 12 students of 2004 have been an exciting group to teach and I eagerly look forward to further improving their performance and composition skills at Level 3 NCEA.

MENINGOCOCCAL IMMUNISATION

THIS year the Ministry of Health offered free Immunisation to all babies, children and young people aged from 0 to 19 years, to help prevent the further spreading of Meningococcal Disease. The first injections in the immunisation programme at Papakura High School took place on Monday the 9th and Tuesday the 10th of August. Three injections were given, with three week breaks in between. Although many students initially regarded the injections with a mix of apprehension and fear, the reassurance and professionalism of the Ministry of Health staff put them at ease and the process was completed without any problems.

My Room

Jason Taylor

My room is furnished with my bed, my computer, posters, skateboards, pictures of my family, my cabinet of trophies and various objects of interest.

The two most notable objects in my room are my computer and the cabinet of trophies. My computer is very special to me, because I got it when I turned ten. Ever since then I have been printing t-shirts and stickers for friends and family.

My cousin came up with the idea of printing t-shirts, because he had done that and he is very good at drawing. He gave me a computer programme, which enables me to design very individual-looking pieces. One of the drawers in the cabinet is filled with plain t-shirts, singlets, sleeveless jerseys, jumpers and hoodies. I therefore, always have enough garments so that I can print any design that my friends would like.

The second most notable object in my room is my cabinet of trophies. It contains the various trophies which I received at prizegivings during the past years for rugby and other sports in which I participated. I most enjoyed playing in the Rugby League.

My closet contains all my little gadgets, toys and shoes. I added colour to the decor by putting up posters of cars, famous skateboarders in action and well known guitar players. All these items make my room a place where I feel totally at home.

The School Ball 2004

The Papakura High School Ball of 2004 was considered by all a great success. Held on the 26th of June at the Ellerslie Convention Centre, both the students and teachers had a spectacular night.

Stepping out of the luxurious mode of transport, fit for the highest of classes - the yellow bendy bus - we were escorted into the building to wait for the lifts that would take us to our destination.

It was awesome to see the transformation of so many of the students into characters of the 1920's Mafia. Everyday clothes were exchanged for gowns, beads, feathers, suits and top hats. Many students made the effort to dress to theme, with a fantastic result - well done guys!

A delicious buffet dinner was served and well-received by all. As students danced the night away to our favourite music, everyone was waiting in anticipation for the announcement of the Don and Dona of the Ball of 2004.

Congratulations to the following:

Don - Matthijs de Pater; Dona - Shiva Mahmoodi; Prince - Tuku Leapai; Princess - Katherine Lawrance; Duke - Alex Dexter; Duchess - Wiki Campbell; Best Dancer - Katrina Johns; Best dressed to theme - Zoe Deverick; - Brent Tollen-Stevens; Best Grover Teacher - Gayle Boyce

A big thanks to be made to all the staff who contributed, especially Mr Foster without his hard work this night would not have been possible. At the great risk of sounding incredibly corny, I have to say that we all had a ball!

ONLY A GEEK

By Tautalafua Mataafa

"Get lost you geek!"

Mila was getting fed up with the constant name-calling, though he didn't quite understand what the meaning of his new name was. He knew it wasn't something nice, but he silently wished that the 'tease the new student' novelty would wear off, so that the school bullies would go away and pick on somebody else for a change. He really regretted the day his parents decided to move to this new place and so he felt very lonely and very much homesick.

Every morning there was a debate between Mila and his mother. Mila always wanted to stay home, but his mother refused to give in. "You have to go to school Mila", his mother would argue. "You can't let those boys get the better of you. Besides, you know that your education is the reason why we came here". There was no winning with his mother. He always failed to make her understand.

On one particular morning, however, as he walked to school, contemplating ways he could avoid being picked on, he looked up just as he was nearing the alleyway and saw the three dreaded bullies waiting there for him. All of a sudden his feet felt as though he was dragging a ton of bricks. His throat had a knot in it and his stomach had a sinking feeling, as though he was on a roller-coaster that had made a sudden dive which he was unprepared for.

"What's up bro? I was wondering when you'd turn up with our lunch". The one who spoke moved closer towards him and Mila quickly took a deep breath, before uttering his reply slowly, "My mum didn't make my lunch today,

"What?" came the angry reply, "I better not be hearing right Geek, 'cause you know what is going to happen to you if you're saying what I think you are saying!" His face came close to Mila's and he could smell the staleness of his breath. His eyes glared and challenged him to give him a reason not to carry out his threat.

"O.K, O.K," Mila finally submitted, "it's in my bag". Before he had finished his reply, the other two had ripped the bag off his back and begun pouring the contents of it on the footpath. The lunch fell out with his hard saved five dollar coins. They lunged at it and gave it out amongst themselves and then they feasted on it like scavengers, after catching their prey, throwing out the rest of the contents of his bag onto the middle of the road.

His books were scattered along the narrow alleyway as they ran off, laughing and reminding him what his name was once again. Later that morning and during his science class, three of Mila's class members suddenly developed strong stomach cramps and a sudden onset of severe diarrhoea. They continually sprinted to the 'little boy's room' and became the laughing stock of the whole school when word got out. After visiting the school nurse, they were referred to the hospital for food-poisoning and had to have an immediate stomach pump. Apparently it was something they ate.

Many were guessing as to what they had eaten which could make them so violently sick. Mila grinned. Maybe it was something they bought with the five dollar coin, or maybe it was the sandwiches which Mila's mum had made for Mila...more than a week ago. If they didn't eat so fast, maybe he could have warned them.

Oh well, Mila couldn't really be blamed could he? After all - he was only a 'geek'.

A TRIBUTE TO BOBBIE KOHAI

10/04/90 - 12/11/2004

Bobbie was the little Maori boy in 10 SA - a one of a kind mate. If someone was down, he would find a way to cheer them up by macking someone, or just saying something out of the blue. One day the 10 SA students decided to give everyone nicknames, so Bobbie was given the name of Macey Gray, because he was known for his Afro hair.

I will always remember him on the day he walked into the tutor class with his hair all "af'd" up and the look on Mr Merchant's face! This was also the day he tragically died. Rest in peace, Bobbie. Even though you're gone, you will not be forgotten. Missing you heaps.

Jarrah Tuoro

R.I.P. is what we say,
 Even before we go to sleep and pray,
 We love you Bobbie, man,
 We do the best we can,
 To stay strong,
 Please help us when we're wrong,
 So bye Bobbie, we will see you again,
 Love always.

CAMP MAHURANGI-YEAR 13 CAMP

Thirty-six students and three staff members ventured north to Snell's Beach for the Year 13 Study Skills camp.

The bus moved as quickly as the staff relay team, giving the students ample time to see the sights of Northland.

Camp Mahurangi is located on the coast and the beach, a good rugby kick away from the students' bunkhouse. The location was superb for the early morning walks. The camp featured a large communal hall, which contained pool tables and table tennis. In here the Year 13 students were involved in a study skills session, provided by M.I.T. The two speakers provided a lot of useful information gearing the students up for the forthcoming exams.

A variety of resources were used to keep the students awake. The second day saw an emphasis on team-building and indoor physical activities. This was followed by some drama challenges that saw the students respond in a variety of different ways to the various tasks.

Over the three days, the students were excellent, apart from their reluctance to go to sleep! Mrs Boyce's voice could regularly be heard in the early hours of the morning. The food was excellent and Mrs Powell had fun with the students and their spoons!

Although the weather was disappointing, the students enjoyed the camp and the camaraderie between them was awesome.
