INTRODUCTION

It is with particular pleasure that I write this introduction to the magazine.

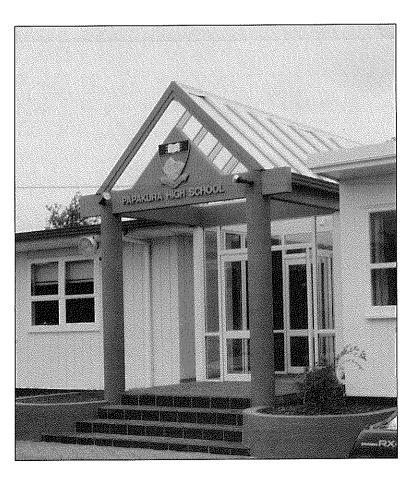

It is indeed a celebratory production and I feel certain that all former pupils will enjoy renewing old acquaintances or reliving happy memories by reading through its pages. It is intended not only to serve as a record of all that is past but also as a reminder of the whole anniversary programme.

By New Zealand standards, a span of forty years constitutes a considerable milestone. Much has happened during that period of time, but for those who can look back to the beginning, it seems that those forty years have passed all too quickly. Time flies indeed and before we know it, the next major milestone - the Golden Jubilee, will be here.

Papakura High School has always been a special place for me. It is also, for two other Board members. For all three of us are former pupils. And all three of us are proud of our former school.

On behalf of all Board members, I commend this magazine to you and I congratulate all those who have shared in its production. Their enthusiasm has been tremendous and their work is a credit to them.

FOREWORD

It is with great pleasure that I write this foreword to the magazine.

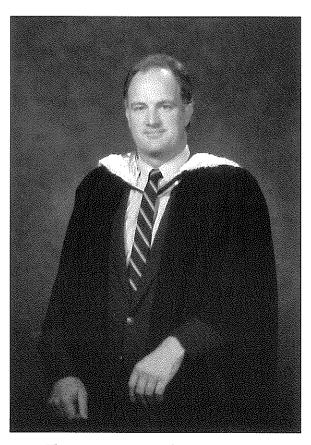

In my two years as Principal and the preceding five years as Deputy Principal, I have had many occasions to reflect upon the achievements of the pupils of this school. They have been outstanding, and are indeed worthy of celebration and praise all over again. This magazine therefore, attempts to bring the past alive for all who read it and as well, it is intended to honour all those who made their mark at school during the forty-year period.

Although the school is young by comparison with others in older-established areas, it is mature enough now to have developed some traditions of its own traditions which will no doubt increase with the passage of time. The school has an excellent reputation, the importance of which I am very much aware.

Papakura High School provides worthwhile educational opportunities for all who enter its gates. Although it began as a small school with limited resources and a restricted curriculum, it did not remain in that mould. It has expanded greatly and has adapted constantly, always keeping pace with the ebb and flow of educational philosophy.

It is a challenging, vital place which is already moving on the road ahead to the twenty-first century. I am proud to be part of it.

The present Principal Mr P K Brewin

EDITORIAL

Papakura High School has reached dignified middle age - as have many of its former pupils. But although in middle age, the school is as vital as ever - far from being a place of tradition-bound complacency.

Over the years, it has developed in size, in achievement, in strength and in reputation, fulfilling indeed the high hopes and ideals of its original educators and guardians. Always a reflection of the community in which it was established, it has been transformed from a medium-sized traditional school in a rural town to a large modern establishment in a satellite city - a school moving with nineties-style dynamism towards the twenty-first century. Thus, it has continued to seek the challenges and the pinnacles of success as embodied in its motto "Summa Pete."

May it ever continue on its upward way-

"To strive, to seek, to find, but not to yield"

THE HOUSE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Introduced in 1963, by the second Principal, the House system was intended to provide a wider range of sports events for pupils and the spirit of competition. It succeeded beyond all expectations.

For a time, the inter-house competition was extended and used for other activities as well as for sports. But this did not prove as successful or as popular as had been hoped. Accordingly, the House Championships were again restored to their original purpose - to provide inter-house sports competition.

Although all former pupils will know the reason for the choice of the names for the four Houses, they may wonder whether there is anything significant in one particular name. One House has won the competition fifteen times in the thirty-one years since the system was started. In contrast, the most unlucky House has won the trophy only three times! However, in spite of the apparent monopoly that one House has over the trophy, the spirit of competition is still very much alive. Inter-house rivalry is as important in 1994 as it was in 1963.

Printed below are the winners of the House Championships since the start of the competition.

FUTURE PATHS

The following paragraph was written by an anonymous pupil for the 1979 Silver Jubilee Magazine. The scenario described has not yet come to pass but the writer made a surprisingly accurate prediction of how classroom teaching could change in the years still to come.

PAPAKURA HIGH SCHOOL IN THE YEAR 2000 AD

In twenty one years we will reach the year 2000 and the question concerning many people will be what the future holds and how will our civilisation cope.

Classrooms will probably still look the same except a computer may have replaced the teacher. Imagine the class greeting a computer at the beginning of each lesson before taking out calculators and other articles of advanced technology. Or will such apparatus be out-dated by then? Perhaps mental telepathy will have superceded mechanical aids whereby pupils pursue their studies through the central computer at the front of the classroom. Another possibility might be the use of television sets relaying information from a central source. This has horrific connotations with overtones of George Orwell's "1984". But by then, Orwell will be "old hat" and no longer a fear anymore, as the community will be ready to accept such teaching techniques.

If scientists perfect technology to such a degree that computers are in control, then subjects like History could become more interesting. Pupils could enter simulated time capsules as described in H G Wells's "Time Machine".

But as yet, this is all mere supposition. We shall have to curb our patience and await events.

THE SCHOOL'S LONG TERM PLAN

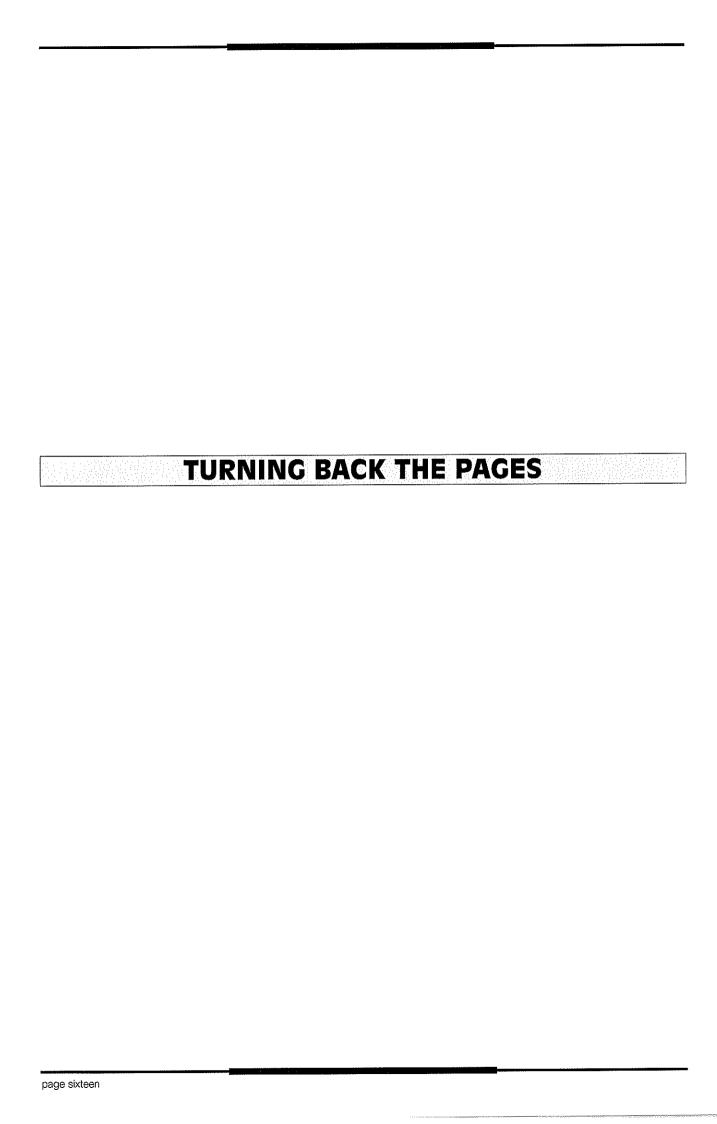

The decision to produce a long-term plan for the school was made in 1992. The reasoning behind this decision was twofold. The first was that it was thought necessary to provide the mechanisms for the process of continuous improvement within the school. The second was that the school should be prepared for the transition into the next century. First steps towards devising the plan have already been taken.

The philosophy behind the plan stresses two major aspects. The first is that as the fundamental function of the school is learning, this aspect should always remain paramount. Towards this end, a flexible, stimulating and challenging curriculum must always be provided to meet the needs of all students and to match the changing trends in educational philosophy. The second major aspect is to acknowledge success and to make students aware that their achievements will always be valued.

Working on the plan is an exciting project. Its ultimate details will be the result of many hours of work. Meanwhile each staff member is being given the opportunity to share in the drafting of those details, by working on one of a series of consultative committees.

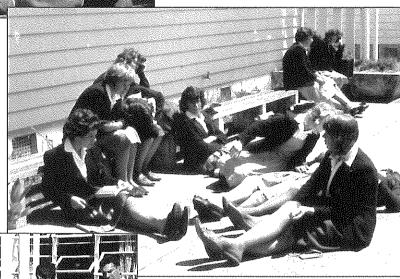

The completion of the plan will be an important achievement - a milestone in the next phase of the school's development.

HIGHLIGHTS, SNIPPETS & LAUGHS FROM:

THE FIRST DECADE

* In the beginning, there was just an idea. Later, there were plans but much procrastination. ED.

Before 1954 the secondary pupils from the South Auckland district either caught the train to Otahuhu College or went by bus to Pukekohe High School. Otahuhu students came by bus for miles from Hunua, Waiau Pa, Drury, Karaka, Alfriston, Kawakawa Bay, Duder's Beach and Opaheke and caught the train at Papakura. Manurewa pupils joined the crowd each morning, and in the evening the reverse happened. Some had left home well before 7.00 a.m. and were back after 5.00 p.m., so it was understandable that moves were afoot immediately after World War II to establish a secondary school nearer home. In 1947, 41.5 acres of the Willis farm was purchased for such a school but much more pressure and waiting was necessary.

* But patience is a virtue. Those who possessed it were eventually rewarded when the plans were at last put into action. ED.

The school opened, with fifteen staff and 320 pupils. Buildings were unfinished. There was a library, but no books. Hon R.M. Algie performed the opening ceremony.

1955

The new sixth form felt very important. New buildings were constructed - the "M" wing and the "Assembly Hall".

1956

There were two ceremonial openings for the newly-completed buildings.

The roll was 641.

Our student reporters wrote that:-

The school Swimming Sports were held in the Ardmore Training College Baths on 20th and 24th February. We wish once again to express our thanks to the Acting-Principal of the College for the use of the swimming facilities and to the staff and officials of the Students' Swimming Club for their assistance in the carrying out of the programme.

SWIMMING NOTES, 1956 MAGAZINE

More new staff were needed. The roll had crept to 700. Large tree-planting project held during the year. First real year for exam entries. Lots of passes at all levels.

1958

The last of the foundation pupils left. In spite of the roll increase, there was a full staff throughout the year. Leslie Paver won the first University Scholarship.

1959

There was a large exodus of senior staff. Maureen Barclay created a shot putt record at the Girls' Inter-Secondary Sports.

The roll had reached 783.

A highlight of the year was:-

..... A most enjoyable Sixth Form Dance on May 4th the whole evening ran smoothly and will remain a memorable event to all who were present.

As each person entered the hall he or she was handed a slip of paper bearing a name. Each name was one of a pair, so that Romeo had to find his Juliet to partner him for the first dance. Snow White was fortunate in having Seven Dwarfs to choose from! During the supper break Ken Thomson and Susan Holland entertained us with several items.

Prefects' Notes, 1959 Magazine

1960

Manurewa High School opened and the schools' northern boundary changed. The roll dropped to 753. The grand piano was bought for the Assembly Hall.

1961

Several senior staff left. The Maori Club began and so did the Swords Club (later known as the Fencing Club).

1962

Mr Campbell retired. Lord Cobham, the Governor General, visited the school, played cricket with the First Eleven and stayed for afternoon tea in the staffroom. A very special occasion indeed. Jill Mitchell represented Auckland in the high jump at the New Zealand Athletic Championships. The Girls' Athletic Team of Val Wymer, Raewyn Lever, Lyn Mathieson and Sheryl Hodges won the coveted Drake Cup at the Girls' Inter-secondary Sports. Ian Haszard won the Bledisloe Cup for public speaking.

The roll had reached 855.

The other event of the year was the South Island trip as described below:-

Thirty-eight pupils and two teachers left Papakura in the August holidays bound for the South Island. Our first thrill was the jet plane, as few of us had flown before. Unfortunately the trip down was very cloudy, enabling us to see very little of the North Island, and little of the South Island until we reached the Kaikoura Ranges. What did we see? - hilly, barren country, with no towns, and apparently no sheep - wide shingle rivers, and snow-covered peaks.

REPORT ON THE SOUTH ISLAND TRIP, 1962 MAGAZINE

A new Principal arrived, Mr N H Thornton. Many new staff appointed, as the roll had grown to 956. A big tree-planting exercise took place along the Willis Road frontage. Stewart Payne won the Bledisloe Cup for public speaking. The "Campbell Block" was built. Intensives started. Jessie Munro won a University Scholarship.

But not everything was as expected.

A staff reporter revealed that:-

"Hormones are what control our reproduction. If we didn't have hormones we would all reproduce so quickly that we would die of exhaustion rather than of old age" (6B Biology paper)

"Beethoven wrote the "Erotic Symphony"

"On wet days we play table tennis in our rhombus room"

Q. What is the name of the British House of Parliament? A. The House of Commas.

INTERESTING "HOWLERS", 1963 MAGAZINE

The Principal remembered that:-

At the end of my first year 1963, I well remember the episode when some fellows took staff cars and raced around the grounds while teachers were at the end of year morning tea. Some of the miscreants went home with Christmas presents they didn't want.

REMINISCENCES FROM N H THORNTON

THE SECOND DECADE

1964

The roll raced to 1012. More new staff were needed. This time, several were recruited from England. The Library was extended to include L2. Michael Hall and Ann Herbert won University Scholarships.

Our student reporters recorded their views in print thus:-

This year the Old Pupils haven't done much in the way of social events mainly because of a certain apathy of most to help organise but always a willingness to take part.

OLD PUPILS' NOTES, 1964 MAGAZINE

The School is well represented throughout our community and also overseas and we hope all are still sticking to the old school motto of 'Summa Pete' and seeking the highest in whatever they do.

Prefects' Notes, 1964 Magazine

Being all third formers most of the games were played against older boys. And very few were won.

EXTRACT FROM FOURTH ELEVEN CRICKET NOTES, 1964 MAGAZINE

1965

The Gym was built and formally opened by Peter Snell.

The roll reached 1056.

The magazine describes two vastly different incidents:-

Friday 13th April 1965, was a bright, sunny, autumn day and school started in the usual manner; perhaps more cheerfully than usual, for it was a day to be remembered.

Towards the end of morning school a group of pupils were attracted to a tractor that lumbered up to the trees behind the tennis courts area accompanied by a lorry and some workers. To the increasing group of curious bystanders this surely could mean only one thing. This must be the reward of two years of waiting; of form efforts to raise money; of dreams. A rope was firmly fastened around the base of a tree and after a hesitant start the tractor tore it from the ground.

* Eye-witness account of first steps towards building the Gymnasium. ED.

After pushing and splashing through the obstacle, you had to squelch through the wet sawdust where the water overflowed at the far end. If you had got completely soaked, you had to run on with flapping wet clothes, and holding your pants up.

1965 Magazine

* Anonymous participant describes the water jump. ED.

1966

A year of many gains. New Library planned and piles of new books, new tennis courts, new commercial suite, the "West Wing" and new sick bays.

The roll rose to 1172.

Some frank comments and typical attitudes, were revealed in the magazine of that year.

TERM ONE

Feb 2 - School begins. The continuing story of ...

16 - Swimming Sports. 20,000 legs under the sea.

28 - Naval Recruiting Officer - enlisting trainees for new submarine - Royalist.

April 8 - 12 Easter Holidays - Catch us if you caan ooo ooo.

> 21 Exams. My marks came tumbling down. 22 ANZAC Service - Oh! Oh! What a lovely war!

ANONYMOUS DIARIST'S CONTRIBUTION, 1966 MAGAZINE

"Some must follow, some must command, although they are all made of clay" -Longfellow.

During the second term the boy prefects' wildest dreams were fulfilled - and a new prefects' room was to be built! Unfortunately the girls were to have it. Still the boys were not discouraged for while it was being built they were shifted into the girls'changing rooms alonside the ball.

Halfway through October, 9 new prefects were unveiled to the school; This in preparation for next year we are told. They are Lena Orum, Lyn Donald, Elizabeth Quigley, Judy Kelly, Arthur Gatland, Peter Brown, Dan Searle, John Watson, Cunny Atchison....."Rank me with the Barbarous Multitude" - Shakespeare.

PREFECTS' NOTES, 1966 MAGAZINE

* The unveiling of prefects? Were they a line of statues? ED.

REPORT FROM 6B ARTS 2

After Mr Webb's departure, Mrs Richardson,

our relieving History teacher, became our Form Teacher. With her help, we were able to raise about 10 pounds for the Form Effort, the money from which, this year, went to the Library Fund. To raise this money, the class sold coffee, fanta and coke at the annual school play, "Hobson's Choice". Later, we made sweets, and sold them around the school, at intervals and lunchtimes. Our thanks go to all the poor suckers who paid 6d to get a stomach ache, and raise our total.

EXCERPT FROM FORM NOTES, 1966 MAGAZINE

1967

A quiet year. Janie North, A.F.S. student from U.S.A. won the Bledisloe Cup for public speaking. The Walkathon was held and the roll raced to 1249.

1968

More classes and more staff. The roll reached 1394. Paul Bridson won the N.Z. Secondary Schools' Foils Championship. The Boys' Fencing Team represented Auckland at the National Championships. Louis Trussell won a University Scholarship.

1969

Sports Pavilion opened for use. First Okui trip held. Marie King chosen for N.Z. under 18 Indoor Basketball Team and Judy Game selected for the Commonwealth Games Swimming Training Squad.

Crowds of pupils with the roll at 1434.

Light-hearted snippets from the magazine prove that schooldays aren't always dull:-

PHS CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

The first man to find a sea route to India around the Cape of Good Hope was Francis Chichester.

School lunches - rape in greaseproof to keep fresh.

The Dogger Bank is famous for making money.

INTERESTING "HOWLERS", 1970 MAGAZINE

1971

The roll dropped to 1250. Thank goodness! No more ties for girls' winter uniform. No more berets. Tenders called for the "A.V. Room".

1972

Liberal Studies introduced to Sixth Form, the "A.V. Room" finished. The Senior Common Room built. Graham Mansell won a University Scholarship.

1973

A quiet year, Jeff Malpas won the Bledisloe Cup for public speaking. Librarians complained about shortage of book space.

Life in the early seventies had its highs and its lows, just as is described by two former staff members with long-range memories:-

The senior school usually got up to antics at the end of the year and on one occasion a senior staff member found his car in the hall foyer. It had been taken there in the dead of night and carried up the steps.

The next year the would-be accreditees decided to celebrate the occasion by installing a siren under the stage. This was meant to be sounded during their last assembly, but I got there first and a very worried seventh former eventually retrieved it and returned it to its owners - at the Fire Station.

REMINISCENCES FROM N H THORNTON

NATIONAL PARK INTENSIVES:

What memories that phrase conjures up! How can anyone forget the train trips, the Mountain Goats, the crush in the tearooms at Taumarunui Station, the occasional eruptions from Mt Ngauruboe, the great cooking competitions, sore feet, and sliding down the snow slopes on plastic bags!

I remember all those and more too! But for sheer drama, the experience I recall most vividly was the unforgettable ordeal of the whiteout, the day we were almost at the top of Red Crater.

That happened when the clouds suddenly came down and we were at the point of no return. We just had to keep going but the track had ceased to look like a track. Fortunately, the wind was behind us. We told everyone to hold hands and form a chain. They did so without question and they kept holding on because everyone was too frightened to let go! After all, no-one could see directly in front. The leader of the long snake-like chain staggered about a good deal as he tried to look for the next pole. The tail-enders however, did not know what was happening and needed to be coaxed and encouraged to keep following the others in the chain and not to break it. It was hard for them but they did as they were told. No-one panicked but those fifteen or twenty minutes of whiteout were more like hours.

Eventually, conditions improved and soon it was possible to see again. Then, to release the tension, there was much shouting and yelling. To cap it all, everyone frolicked about in the snow.

These are but a few of the memories I cherish from my experiences on National Park Intensives during the many years that I went there. I am glad that I went so often.

THE THIRD DECADE

1974

Quiet year. No milestones. Arrival of "P5½" _ the converted garage that became the remedial reading room. Anne Laidlaw won a University Scholarship.

Our intrepid reporters produced some interesting and varied copy, this year. Samples selected are a serious report, a confession, a eulogy and revelations from archives:-

The aim of these camps was basically to try and form a teaching situation where freed from the pressures of the classroom, the pupils would have an opportunity to develop leadership, make new friends, become a little more self reliant and at the same time do a concentrated course in English, Biology, Geography and Physical Education.

On the 'wrap up' day, we wrapped up a car and a bike. The head girl, Lynne Nixey, had her Anglia wrapped in gladwrap. It looked very pretty, even had the bow on top. Mr McCoskrie was the other victim. His bike (kept in the staffroom) was wrapped in toilet paper!!

1987

Another great sporting year. New athletic and swimming records set by Papakura High School pupils at Manukau Sports Meetings. Equestrian Team first in dressage at Inter-Collegiate Championships.

1988

Another fund-raising year - this time for electronic typewriters. Honours to Triathlon Team at Secondary School Championships.

More investigative journalists-in-the-making report that:-

After serious investigation, the Form 6 Journalism class has found some rather strange objects in the drawer of Mrs Thomas's desk. What was found was actually a chain and shackle. When questioned by her class, she replied "that's for drama". But the question remains: What is it really doing there??????

Roll steady at 1250. Start of "Tomorrow's Schools". End of all the old systems. Many, many changes. Fitness Centre set up. S Cose won a University Scholarship.

Our Art Reporter describes working on a community project.

The final painting was an experience not to be forgotten. We spent two days squashed into the tunnel with 287 other people, shoulder to shoulder, with paint everywhere, above, below and beside us. It was an excellent learning experience in painting.

1990

Start of reo-rua programme. Rotary Twin Exchange scheme brings many Australians. Also several other exchange students arrived from the U.S.A. and Europe. More sports successes. M Banicevich and Anna McConnell won University Scholarships.

1991

Opening of the Wharenui after frantic last-minute painting marathon! Ceremony an event to remember. Building really special. D Frear, J-P Mowat, Laraine Maidment won University Scholarships.

Personal comments from the Seventh Form reveal that:-

The hi-lite (sic) of the seventh form 'buddy' relationship with their third form classes must be the camps in Term One. Ours was the exception. Little did we know that we were in for one of the worst times of our lives...but with the best gang (and we mean GANG) of third formers.

Retirement of Mr Hunt in May. Mr Brewin swapped his Deputy Principal's desk for that of the Principal. A quiet year except for the Chocolate Challenge Campaign. S Fergusson, Karen Levin, Sarah Box, Zella Smith, Louise Hill all won University Scholarships.

The cricket reporter seems to have had some problems of expression when he wrote that:-

After a long break full of cricket highlights from the International scene, the male population of Papakura High, was full of closet cricketers coming out.

THE WIND

Have you ever heard the wind Whistling round and round, Sweeping all the paper Off the dusty ground?

Then at night it's like a ghost, Creeping round the eaves, It's the one to scare you most, Whistling through the trees.

Up and down the streets all night, Whistling more and more.
Slamming windows in its flight, Banging every door.
Then it swirls upon its way, Sweeping all along.
Sudden stillness heralds day, Morn, and blackbird's song.

A STAFF BIOGRAPHY

In awe we see our Head preside, Resplendent in his gown. There's one thing that we can't decide, Where does he keep his crown?

As Spider spins his silken Webb, And tries to teach us histr'y-But fools rush in where angels tread, This verse must keep its myst'ry.

Now Jum is really just the man, His laughter is a tonic, And when he talks he really can, Although his jokes are chronic.

Of all the men that you could find, There's none with such a plaster Of Latin phrases in his mind, As Gus our Latin master.

Old Corny is a favourite, With all the girls in town, He has a corny nickname, But I cannot write it down!

The one we sing loud praises to-Our confidante and friend, We call her Winnie (not "the Pooh"), And now I'd better end.

STEEPLECHASING

The rush of air
The shock of landing
The last mad gallop
That leaves the rest standing.
The roar of the crowd
The river of grass
As horse and rider
Go streaking past.
The thrill is not that
Of merely racing;
It's the greatest of all
-It's steeplechasing!

THE SCHOOL GATES

They stand mute witness to ever striving youth, to education, character and truth-Through years unnoticed and unseen, in spite of

Nothing but an entrance in the boundary wall.

The closing ceremony ends our final day, And passing through these gates we move upon our way;

We know instinctively, no matter what our fates, Cherished in our hearts will live the shield, grey stone-the gates.

JUNGLE BY NIGHT

Deep in the jungle so fearsome and still, A great hungry lion prowled eager to kill. The moon filtered down making bright paths of light,

As the king of the jungle searched on in the night. A sudden sharp noise made the great creature turn.

As he saw a lithe deer by a dark band of fern. He froze to the spot alert to await The fearless young deer unaware of his fate.

A. McCutcheon - 4 F. 1962

REFLECTION

He yawned and stretched reflectively. These beautiful sunny days certainly made one very sleepy. Slowly and deliberately he got up from the old cane chair.

As most of the family were indoors he decided to go for a walk by himself to one of his favourite haunts. This was beside the sprawling river, lined on both its banks by golden willow trees.

He set off slowly down the road, now and then stopping to listen to the many birds. They were resting in the oak trees, gay again with their new and beautiful canopies of light-green foliage.

Occasionally a startled blackbird squawked loudly and flew away noisily.

Just beside the bend in the river, he sat down on the moss-covered banks. Near the bank the river eddied and rushed among the large round boulders, but in the middle, it ran very swiftly, carrying away with it dead leaves and branches.

By now, the shadows of the trees were getting longer and longer. The sun was setting behind a bank of rosy clouds. Slowly, and a little sadly, he got up and began his journey home, an old, black and white dog, far too old to perform the duties which his master desired.

AUTUMN MORNING

Just before dawn, the birds begin to sing. The morning mist lies gentle and soft, a hazy white blanket spread in careless patches over the dark mirror which is the sea. Then from the faint distance you hear the putt! putt! putt! of a small motor boat as it comes nearer, passes, then fades away unseen into the distance again. The small waves caused by its passing lap against the piles, and swish as they wash up on to the pebble beach. You hear the voices, and c as the fog begins to lift, you see some men boarding a deepsea fishing boat. A little shop is opening for the day's work, and a small boy is sitting on the jetty, throwing bread into the water.

LONELY CORNER

Lonely corner, here I stand,
Nothing in my frozen hand.
Neon signs mocking at my feet,
Reflected from the cold wet street.
People pass, don't see me there,
Only cold and blank-eyed, stare.
Subjective wanderers, they don't know.
Invisible observer, I don't show.
If only they stopped,
They too would be mourners,
For the wreckage of life
Seen from lonely corners.

TINTED TESSELLATION OF TIN

D Herbert 4Pa 1969

Slowly I opened my eyes. It was semi-dark, and waves of nausea swept over me, drenching me in a hot, almost unbearable sweat, and making my fingers and legs tremble as if from ague.

The tinted tessellation of tin at which I was gazing revolved slowly before my eyes, turning faster, faster, and even faster, until the swirling spots of light clung together in colours unknown to human sanity, changing ever more quickly in a shivering kaleidoscope of psychedelic colour.

I closed my eyes tight, my head almost bursting. I waited till the fit had passed, and then opened them again. The elaborate piece of tinted mosaic before me was still deceiving me into thinking I had recovered, until my relief was violently broken by the slowly turning background, the whole process beginning over again. My eyes were glued fixedly on the knob that gleamed dully and evilly in the centre, and once again I could feel my body beginning to tighten. My throat contracted, my hands balled into fists so hard that the fingernails drew blood on the palms. A terrible force began to tighten my brain and my thinking. My eyes hurt. And all I could do was watch.

Once again the void of sparkling tin slowly changed speeds, forever going faster. There was no momentary relief, no break in the tension to ease my violently jangling nerves. It seemed as if every nerve fibre in my body was piercingly alive. making hot, sharp pains slide cruelly through my anguished mind, and my very being was screaming out to stop - just for a minute. The flicking, ever-changing spots clustered and broke apart, and still they kept spinning. Slowly, but with relentless surety, the conic-shaped vertigo of massed lights built and built, and the now-blending colours transfused totally into a blaring pit of animated confusion. The climax was reached, and my tortured mind sank thankfully into dark and merciful oblivion, my steel-hard body relaxed, and the tinted tessellation slowed, stopped, and was still

THE BLIGHT

Seas of green, Mountains of white,
When will the Earth encounter the blight?
No more will there be of Man nor beast,
but a bright, bright light coming from the west or East?
Whether it be the USA, USSR or Middle East,
No one will care, for all living things will cease.

The explosion followed by a fireball, followed by rain, will murder any, within its domain.

But wait! Hold! This can't be!!

For no longer will exist Seas and Mountains of tranquil beauty....

But.....instead, charred remains of What used to be!

No-one can see Yet all are aware Of its presence

With reckless abandon Headstrong and carefree The wind.

LIFE WITHOUT THE SENIORS

Life without the Seniors is good. I say this because every morning and every afternoon I get squashed up on the side of the bus because of pushing seniors, trying to get on the bus, who don't give two hoots for the little 3rd formers in front of them!

If your're in the middle of this pushing mass there is nothing you can do except try to stand upright because your hands are pinned to your body. Also without the seniors it leaves a lot more room on the bus and sometimes there is even a spare seat!

So I repeat, life without the seniors is good! Nicola P 3U. 1992

STAFF OVER THE YEARS

Although the original staff of the school was small, it did not remain so. As the school grew, so did the number of staff. Thus, the names of all the staff who have served this school in one capacity or another during the forty-year period, are now far too numerous to be recorded in this magazine. To list them all would require a separate publication.

We are grateful to them all for their work. Some have been unusual or special people. Some have been long-serving. But each and every one of them has been a part of the parade of men and women who have served this school so well.

With sincerity and respect, we acknowledge their contribution to the school and the pupils.

Printed below are the names of the 1954 staff, the long-serving staff and the 1994 staff.

THE PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The first PTA as it is now known, was formed in February 1954, within weeks of the opening of the school. Then, its title was the Parent-Teacher-Resident Association or PTRA for short. It met regularly throughout that first year and held various functions - some social, some informational in order to keep parents advised of school activities and to encourage them to participate in the association's programmes. Right from the start, the PTRA showed its interest in the school in a practical way. During October of 1954, members organized a direct mail-out appeal to raise funds for the building of sports changing sheds. Three hundred and fifty pounds was obtained, much to everyone's delight. In November of the same year, the first gala day was held. Although there is no record of the amount of money raised, the occasion did produce a profit and much enthusiasm.

Down through the years, the PTA has continued to be a vigorous supporter of the school. Indeed, it has been the linch-pin of almost every fund-raising scheme undertaken by the school. To raise money, it has undertaken catering for school balls, end-of-year functions, and even a few district functions. It has organized countless gala days and more recently book drives. Its newest "business" undertaking has been the acquisition and management of the second-hand uniform sales department. From the funding it has raised, the PTA has provided much for general projects like classroom resources, library and remedial reading books. But additionally, it has financed more specific items like costumes for the Maori and Pacific Island Cultural Groups, the Dux and Proxime Accessit prizes, cutlery and crockery for the New Pavilion and above all, bursaries for former students who enrol for study at tertiary level. Also over the years, it has striven to provide better physical amenities for pupils. To this end, it has recruited work-parties to concrete paths and play areas, to lay cricket pitches, to cut out a playing field from a grassy wilderness, to build seats and to plant trees, gardens and shrubs.

For parents, the PTA has provided discussion groups, seminars, and social evenings. Through its formal meeting procedures, it has acted as a training ground for members who have gone on to other more high-powered committees in the local community. Indeed, many former PTA committee members have, instead of entering into other community-based organizations, retained their allegiance to the school by becoming Board members. In fact, the first PTRA Chairman, Mr C Mansell, became first a Board member, then later, Chairman of the Board.

Thus, during its forty-year history, the PTA has been a mainstay of the school. Apart from its engaging in its traditional activities, the PTA fulfils another significant role. It is an important forum for discussion on issues of school policy. Through such a forum the school administrators can learn the PTA's views on general issues or on specific proposals. Thus, the PTA is regarded as a most important part of the school structure. The school owes an immense debt of gratitude to all of the PTA committees who have fulfilled their periods of office so selflessly. Their commitment has been exemplary and we are deeply appreciative. Without their magnificent work, Papakura High School would have been a poorer place, in both the literal and the figurative sense.

In particular we pay tribute to the members of that first committee of 1954, and to the present one of 1993-94.

THE MAORI PARENTS' SUPPORT GROUP

This group was established in 1989 when the first reo-rua class was introduced to the school. Its purpose was to reinforce the commitment of Maori parents to their children's education.

It is a very enthusiastic and energetic group which is exceptionally supportive of its members and of all Maori pupils -especially those in the reo-rua classes, now called reo-awhina. It encourages everyone to work towards his/her fullest potential and the result of this encouragement has been an impressive increase in Maori pupils' achievements. The group played a significant part not only in the months of preparation necessary for the completion of the Wharenui, but also in the organization of its opening ceremony in October 1991.

It liaises with, and sends delegates to, the PTA. Like the PTA, the Maori Parents' Support Group is a forum for discussion on school policy matters or on general issues. Thus, it also fulfils an important part in the total school structure.

We pay tribute to it for its excellent work.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS 1993-1994

Chairman: Mr K Kingi Kaumatua: Mr A Te Kani Secretary: Mrs N Kukutai

THE EX-PUPILS' ASSOCIATION

This association has not enjoyed the stability it deserves. Established in 1957 it did not last. Reestablished falteringly several times, it was yet again revived in 1975 at the time of the twentyfirst anniversary of the foundation of the school. It did not survive beyond that year. In 1978, it was again resuscitated when plans were being made to celebrate the Silver Jubilee. But again, the Association sank into oblivion, after the last hurrahs of the Jubilee had faded away. Its bank account and records did survive, however. because they were preserved in the school archives. For those ex-pupils who kept in contact with the school, it seemed likely that the Association would arise again, phoenix-like from the ashes, as soon as any renewed enthusiasm could be established. There were a few unofficial attempts to revive the Association but none was enduring.

Eleven years passed then in August 1991 the school organized an ex-pupils' sports day and from the enthusiasm engendered by this event, a roll was established and new contacts made. The re-vitalized Ex-Pupils' Association met for the first time in October 1992 and from that inaugural meeting, a Jubilee Committee has met regularly and has worked energetically to plan and produce the programme for the fortieth anniversary celebrations.

It is to be hoped that after this very special occasion is over, the Association will not go into recess, but will survive and flourish. We anticipate that it will continue and we wish it well.

DISTINGUISHED EX-PUPILS

There have been many pupils, who once they have left their schooldays behind, have gone on to achieve distinction in their chosen field - whether that was in the academic world, in business, in drama, in diplomacy, in law, in medicine, in teaching or in sport. But out of all of those, whose names would be too numerous to record in this journal, three deserve particular mention. Each has scaled the heights to reach his or her own particular pinnacle of success in a sporting career.

The first, the late Dr Roger Freeth, described as the "giant of New Zealand motorsport" was a pupil from 1969-70 and was dux of the school.

The second, Greg Yelavich was at school from 1971-73. Shooting became his specialty. In 1986 he won two gold medals at the Commonwealth Games Edinburgh and in 1990, he won two silver medals as well as two bronze medals, at the Commonwealth Games, Auckland.

The third, Stephanie Cooper (nee Foster) was at school from 1972-August 1976. She was a Prefect in 1975 and Deputy-Head Girl in 1976. Rowing became her sport. In 1984, she won the Petit Final for Women Olympic Scullers at Los Angeles. In 1986, she won a gold medal for Single Sculls and a gold medal for Double Sculls at the Commonwealth Games, Edinburgh. Also in 1986, she won a bronze medal for Single Sculls at the Women's World Championships. In 1987 she was awarded the M.B.E.
